

JOSEPH BROWN THUNDER
Principal and Founder
Nativeres

Joseph Brown Thunder, 30, Lakota/Hocak, brings over eight years of hands on interactive media experience and more than twelve years of theatrical, film, video and business acumen to the challenge of building digital media and entertainment productions.

As founder and principal of the newly-formed Nativeres, his core focus is the continually evolving convergence of media with technology. He has designed and implemented over 50 Internet projects and is widely recognized for his creativity and unique style. His work for Intel, the Department of Defense, and PBS is known for creating a high profile for clients, generating major traffic and has been acknowledged for its effectiveness and success.

Prior to forming Nativeres, Joseph was a project lead for Intel Corporation.

Joseph received his BA from the University of Minnesota.
